

ABSTRACT

A method for the biocontrol of horn fly for protecting livestock, the method comprising defining an area for managing the livestock and placing a number of wasp's hives containing wasps of the species Polybia scutellaris, in an effective amount to control the flies, and placing a honey containing food for the wasps in an area at a distance from the hives.